

CULTURAL EDUCATION ASSISTANCE PROGRAM

The Huna Heritage Foundation assists in preserving, advocating and learning the history and culture of the Huna people. Foundation Cultural Education funding is available to help pay costs for participating in instructional activities associated with Traditional Practices or Art Forms.

Family members will not be paid for instructing or learning from others in their families except in an open group instructional situation.

To be eligible for Cultural Education Assistance, you must:

- Be a Huna Totem Shareholder or descendant. The term “descendant” is “a person who is descendant from a Native, or adopted by a Native, or adopted by a descendant of a Native.” [As defined in the Alaska Native Claims Settlement Act Amendments of 1987.]
- Be accepted into a program to learn an Art Form which is related to the traditional culture of the Huna people

Application requirements:

- Complete the attached application by typing or printing neatly
- Submit at any time with a description of the training program, including costs associated with this course of instruction. Brochures from the training program will meet this requirement.

Applications are reviewed and acted upon by the Huna Heritage Foundation’s Board of Trustees. Awards may be made as follows:

- Awards may be made for course materials and for tuition costs up to $300.
- Preference will be given to applications submitted for programs that have qualified instructor
- Only two Cultural Assistance grant awards are allowed per individual in a five-year period.
- Huna Heritage Foundation grants funds only to those activities directly related to the Huna Tlingit Culture.
